

Anti-Semitic attacks in France: Public Statements by Jacques Chirac, President of the Republic. (Le Havre, April 1, 2002)

Anti - Lundi 1 avril 2002

"I have come here to convey to the Jewish community of Le Havre and beyond them to the entire Jewish community of France my indignation, my sense of solidarity and above all my strength of feeling following the attacks which, lately in ever-increasing numbers and more especially in the last few days, have been directed against persons, property and symbols of the Jewish community. These acts are utterly unimaginable, unforgivable, indescribable, and must be condemned and punished as such. They are unworthy of France, they are unworthy of the French people (...)."

|